While there are many apps that food can be reviewed on, none address the need that many college students have for affordable and healthy dining options near campus, making it difficult for students to find good options while on a budget.